THE GEOGRAPHIC HISTORY OF OUR FAMILY

Family journal/s can be individual or collective.

Journal Project 1: Most people who live in the United States immigrated here at some point. Talk with parents, grandparents, aunts and uncles to learn about where your family lived before coming to the United States. Journal about your findings and the family stories you learned while collecting information.

Journal Project 2: Print a world map for each child, help them star, color, and/or label all the places from which your family originated. Make tables and charts to display family information. Some examples: a bar graph showing the ages of different family members or the number of family birthdays that fall in a given month, a pie chart that shows the ethnic/genetic make up of

Journal Project 3: Make a family tree, adding photos if you can.

Journal Project 4: Learn more about you! Ask your parents to tell you stories about you as a baby. Choose a story to retell in your journal adding photos when possible. (If journaling collectively, make a page for each child.) You can add family pets, if you want to.

Journal Project 5: Collect family recipes. Remember to document: which family member is credited for them, and any stories you many have about their cultural origins, or the special occasion/holiday for which they may be know.

Plan a Family Day: Plan a family day at your home or a local park. Use your family recipes to create a menu, which can be prepared potluck style with your extended family's help. Choose a few games you plan to play at your gathering. Finally, select a date and invite your family. Add your plans to your journal.

Have a Family Day: Enjoy your family day. Remember to share your family journal. Take a family photo.
